Teva Customer / Supplier / Partner Talking Points

What we announced:

Recently Teva announced a proposal to acquire Mylan.

We believe this is a highly compelling proposal that would create considerable value for the stakeholders of both companies including you, our valued [customer / supplier / partner].

By combining the strengths of Teva and Mylan, we would create an industry leading company, well positioned to transform the global generics space.

This will further enable us to transform the industry through a unique and differentiated business model, leveraging significant assets and capabilities in specialty and generics, as well as the intersection of the two.

This differentiated business model will address significant trends and discontinuities that prevail today among patients and healthcare systems around the world.

We would leverage the combined company's significantly more efficient and advanced infrastructure, with enhanced scale, production network, end-to-end product portfolio, commercialization capabilities and geographic reach.

Together, we would be in a position to better serve our combined customers around the world. As one company, we would have:

An even more efficient, flexible and competitive global platform with industry-leading go-to-market capabilities;

The broadest portfolio in the industry with a combined pipeline of over 400 pending ANDAs and over 80 first-to-files in the U.S.

The capabilities and technologies to focus on more complex, hard-to-produce durable products, delivering better value and accessibility, while improving adherence and compliance;

The most advanced R&D capabilities in the generics industry and the world's leading integrated API division; and leading positions in our specialty therapeutic areas of focus: multiple sclerosis, respiratory, pain, migraine, movement disorders and allergy therapeutics.

In short, we believe this combination will make us an even stronger partner to you.

What this means for customers/suppliers:

While we feel strongly about the compelling rationale for combining our companies, we have not yet reached an agreement.

We look forward to working constructively with Mylan so that we can move forward and quickly realize the benefits of this combination.

Importantly, today's announcement will have no effect on how we conduct business with you, and it is business as usual for all of us at Teva.

We value your [business / partnership] and want to assure you that, as always, we remain 100% committed to our [customers / suppliers / partners].

We remain as focused as ever on continually improving the products and service you have come to trust and expect from Teva.

Conclusion:

We will keep you informed of important developments as this process progresses.

As always, you should always feel free to contact me with any questions you may have.

Thank you for your continued relationship with Teva and we will always work hard to provide high-quality medicines.
